Islam and Christian–Muslim Relations is edited jointly by the Centre for the Study of Islam and Christian–Muslim Relations (CSIC), University of Birmingham with Selly Oak Colleges, Birmingham, UK and the Center for Muslim–Christian Understanding, Georgetown University, Washington DC, USA. The Journal provides a forum for all those who wish to enhance their critical appreciation of the two religious traditions both on the historical, empirical and on the ideological, theoretical levels. The Editors welcome scholarly contributions concerning Islam in its relations with other groups and ideologies, past and present, as well as on Christian–Muslim relations worldwide. Articles are also welcomed which deal with the role of Islam and the nature of Christian–Muslim relations, analyses of theological, historical, social, political and cultural responses to Muslim interaction with Christian and other societies and cultures, whether as minorities or majorities. The Journal publishes articles, documentation, reports, review articles and book reviews.
